

Petty cash and payments to research participants at WTCN

Petty cash

The WTCN holds an amount of petty cash that can be used to reimburse research participants in accordance with the requirements below. It is essential that all staff at the WTCN adhere to the requirements below so that we can continue to hold petty cash for participant reimbursement.

Payments to research participants

We can make cash payments to research participants as follows:

Reason	Amount per subject expenses claim form	Proof required	Notes
One day's participation, refreshment, travel	Up to £40	No
One day's participation, refreshment, travel	Up to £100, of which no more than £40 can be for participation.	Yes: original receipts, copies of receipts, a note of the miles driven by the subject (we pay 45p per mile), etc.	If no proof is available (e.g., the participant does not have a receipt, or will take a taxi as part of their return journey) then make a note of this on the claim form.
More than one day's participation	Up to £100, with a maximum of £40 per day.	No	Clearly indicate on the claim form that the payment was for two (or more) different scan dates, or complete a separate claim form for each scan date.

If you wish to reimburse a participant more than £40 for one day's participation, or more than £100 for one day's participation and travel, then this should be done via an expenses claim to UCL central finance. The money will be reimbursed directly into the participant's bank account.

Advances

If you will need to reimburse your research participants out of hours (i.e., in the evening or over the weekend) it may be possible to provide a cash advance for this, subject to availability. If an advance is provided, you are expected to return completed subject expense forms and any remaining cash to the WTCN on the morning of the next working day after the advance is provided. We cannot replenish our petty cash while an advance is outstanding, so any delay in returning your completed subject expense forms and remaining cash may significantly hamper reimbursement for other research at the WTCN.

Other arrangements

If you think that the arrangements above may cause difficulties for your research or for your research participants, or if you will be providing a large amount of reimbursement within a short period, or if you would like some specific arrangements to be made in relation to your study, then please speak with Alex Frosch (Departmental Administrator) as far in advance of your study as possible, so that appropriate arrangements can be made.

Please also feel free to speak to Tom Simpson at any time if you have any questions about payments to research participants at the WTCN.
